

Hybrid Model Comparison (In-Person Instruction)

| | Two/Three Hybrid | Rotating Weekly Hybrid |
|--|--|--|
| Summary | Students have two days of in-person instruction and three days of remote instruction every week. | Students attend school in person for two consecutive weeks (five days a week) followed by one week of remote learning. |
| Student Groups | Two (Red, Blue) - Students are placed into Red and Blue groups that alternate between in-person and remote days. | Three (A, B, C) - Each class is divided into three cohorts that rotate weeks of in-person and remote learning. For example, a class with 15 students would be divided into three groups of five. Every week on a rotating basis, the class would have 10 students in school and five students engaging remotely. |
| How the Schedule Works | Blue Team students attend in person Mondays and Thursdays with remote instruction on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Red Team students attend in person Tuesdays and Fridays with remote instruction on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays. | Groups A and B attend in person for Week 1, with Group C remote. Groups B and C attend in person for Week 2, with Group A remote. Groups C and A attend in person for Week 3, with Group B remote. |
| Total Number of Remote Days Over a Three-Week Period | 9 (three days per week), or 60% | 5 (five consecutive days), or 33% |
| Total Number of In-Person Instruction Days Over a Three-Week Period | 6 (two days per week, which may or may not be consecutive), or 40% | 10 (two consecutive weeks), or 67% |
| Other | It does not allow for Red and Blue groups to see one another as they are never in the school building on the same days. | It allows all in-person classmates to see each other throughout the rotational period (e.g., Week 1 is Groups A/B, Week 2 is Groups B/C, Week 3 is Groups C/A). |
